NORFOLK

Donald Trump will appear at a rally at the battleship Wisconsin on Halloween.

Mike Rubino, the Trump campaign director for Virginia, said on "The Steve Batton Show" Wednesday that the Republican presidential candidate will hold a rally at the historic downtown site at noon Oct. 31.

"It's going to be a great venue," he said on the show.

Tickets are expected to be available starting Thursday. Interested attendees should check Eventbrite.com (<http://Eventbrite.com>) and watch Steve Batton's Facebook page (<http://www.facebook.com/SteveBattonRadioShow/posts/10154029425807289>) for updates.

Tickets for Trump's canceled Virginia Beach rally last month will not apply to this event.

Trump has zero governmental and foreign policy experience.

Would you hire a doctor with no experience to operate on you?

Didn't a man just get elected President of the US in 2008 with no experience?

Obama had been in the government for ten years when he got elected.

He also has a degree in international relations from Colombia and is a graduate of the Harvard Law School.

Trump is a casino owner who's companies have filled for bankruptcy more times than any other America company.

Barry Soetoro is a fraud. Osama bin Ladin died in December, 2001 of kidney failure. It was in news outlets all over the world, except here in the U.S.A. Barry has lied about his birthplace, citizenship, education, and experience. His BIGGEST lie to date, however, is that he "cares" about the fools like you who voted for him both times, Chris33.

Your conspiracy thinking aside, Bin Laden was under house arrest in Pakistan and was killed (unarmed) by one of our elite hit-squads.

Still, he has more credibility that bigoted birthers like yourself or Trump.

You are correct, and that man's name was Benjamin Netanyahu, NOT Osama bin Laden.

How did that work out for G.W. Bush? He had some experience in government but lacked the intelligence to discern the best from the worst. Trump is cunning no doubt, but that does not gauge his intelligence. Look sharp.

Another point in some circumstance like the Cuban Missile Crisis the President has to make the decision rather than rely on advisors to make it for him. I really do not trust

Trump's judgment in domestic or international affairs.

Mr. Lewis -- Brian Williams lost his job and his reputation for fabricating the fiction of being shot down by an RPG.

Ms Clinton committed the same transgression, by claiming that she and her daughter came under "sniper fire" in Bosnia.

You might be able to sell the tribal mythology re Ms Clinton, to the American Idol Demo, but her achievements -- her concrete, tangible, exceptional achievements -- as First Lady, Senator, and SoS -- do not exist!

In fact, the things she has her nasty little fingerprints on have, much more often than not, morphed into disasters of the highest degree!

"I believe you have to go in and strike Iran -- not with soldiers -- you know, it's not a world of soldiers anymore. It's a world of air. It's a world of different kinds of, you know, we've changed." - Mr. Trump

"I will not hesitate to take military action if Iran attempts to obtain a nuclear weapon" - Ms Clinton

I have a tendency to question everything -- even my own assumptions. However, I am affected to conclude that the USoA's processes of empathy, sympathy, kindness and care, are infected with the malware of perpetual warfare.

If I am disturbed, you can bet it triggered an Iranian reaction of absolute trepidation -- they are no doubt terrified. For odds are, the next POTUS will be a homicidal maniac!!!

Mr. Thomas -- If the choices were Ms Clinton / Mr. Trump, I would be impelled to flip a coin.

If the choices were Mr. Sanders / Mr. Trump, I would hold my nose, and cast my vote for Mr. Sanders.

Shake it up...!!!

Mr. Sanders flip-flopped on gun-control, but so did Mr. Trump.

"But I am very concerned about a lot of the war talk that I'm hearing from my Republican colleagues, who apparently have forgotten the cost of war and the errors made in Afghanistan and Iraq. And what I believe, very much, is that the most powerful military on Earth, the United States of America, that our government should do everything that we can to resolve international conflict in a way that does not require war." - Mr. Sanders

That makes much more sense to me, than psychopathic idiocy espoused by Ms Clinton and Mr. Trump.

Thad,

As you have observed, the two tribes have brought us to the eve of destruction.

President Trump can't do any worse and he just may do somewhat better.

I don't think anyone can do much about the main problem of the private banker owned and misleadingly named Federal Reserve.

There really isn't any way to get rid of "The Money Masters". They are too deeply entrenched.

Local -- With all due respect, Mr. Sullivan nails the precise altitude of Ms Clinton's defective aptitude.

For Mr. Clinton, politics was instinctual -- he was always smiling, winking, and he always hit the right note. By contrast, Ms Clinton will make your head hurt.

“This unbelievably useless, terrible candidate of Hillary Clinton, . . . Has she ever given a speech that you were inspired by? She’s a talent-free hack. The only decision you could really put on her was the disastrous Libya invasion, which repeated every mistake that George W. Bush made, that violated everything that Obama stood, and has led to disaster.” -Andrew Sullivan

Bloomberg’s Mark Halperin asked the room, “What did she accomplish that you consider significant as secretary of state?”

The answers — or rather, the replies, since no one had an answer — were awkward to say the least.

“I really can’t name anything off the top of my head,” one squirming Democrat admitted.

For someone who has spent her entire adult life in politics, including being a senator and then a secretary of state, Hillary Clinton has nothing to show for all those years — no significant legislation of hers that she got passed in the Senate,

So Thaddeus you must like style over substance. Ms. Clinton showed a lot of heart during the debate especially when it came to Children and Women's issues. We get it some in the mainstream media don't like the Clinton's. They were ready to write her off when her poll numbers began to sink all because of the Republican baseless smear campaign (silly non-issue with e-mails). Now after a solid debate her poll numbers are soaring again. Take that Joe Scarborough!

Mr. Lewis -- Let me tell you what I do not like: A throng a Dem-tribal hacks that have traversed beyond the boundaries of reason, and into the realm of the supernatural, in an effort to create the mythology of Ms Clinton's “hyper-competency.”

I do not like being played, and that is pure BS -- Ms Clinton is not even minimally competent.

HillaryCare, was a substantive disaster that resulted in political disaster, Libya was military disaster that resulted in humanitarian disaster, and the multiple ethical problems Ms Clinton has encountered over the years have rendered her level of corruption to a degree of radioactive.

In a recent poll, the word most identified by respondents in association with Ms Clinton was “liar.” The runners-up were “dishonest” and “untrustworthy.”

Evidently, vicious and lawless were not included as choices.

Very true VB Local. I saw and heard the entire debate there was very little sunshine between the position of Saunders and Clinton on Iran, Iraq or Syria. Mrs. Clinton demonstrated quite admirably during the debate incredible restraint when it came to foreign policy. Mr. Trump the Chicken Hawk on the other hand stated quite proudly that he is a "Militaristic" man. I hope the Republicans wake up and put an end to this fool's presidential run.

Mr. Lewis -- Dr. Freud theorized that some females experience anxiety as a result of not being equipped with a penis.

Well, as SoS, Ms Clinton was one of the biggest gun-runners in the world.

Furthermore, you saw what she did to the People of Libya. Heck, she might even be more maniacal than Mr. McCain -- and there is no question that she is far more corrupt.

The magnitude of Ms Clinton's viciousness and callous disregard for other Human beings is an indication that she is inflicted the psychological malady known as "Penis Envy!"

That is the most diabolically dangerous class of Chickenhawk!

Perfect night for that monster to speak! I hope there will be a large number of protesters to greet him when he arrives at the Wisconsin. So far what do we know about this buffoon besides he really really hates undocumented and documented Mexicans, he wants to build a really big Trump Wall, and he has a tax plan that even he cannot tell us how it will cut the debt rather than add to it. This is the Republican party monster that cannot be controlled by his own parties' leaders.
